The Buntyn HOMESTEAD LANDS FOR SALE

WE have the pleasure of placing on the market those very desirable and valuable lands, so well known to the community as the Homestead Tract of the late Geraldus Buntyn, Esq., situated at the first station on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, five miles east of the city. The improvements, with about twenty acres of land, have been recently sold to Hume F. Hill, Esq., who now resides upon the premises. The balance of the tract, consisting of about 480 acres, has been laid off in lots varying in size from five to ten acres, fronting upon broad avenues, and laid off so as to secure the greatest amount of comfort. The trains of the Memphis and Charleston railroad afford the opportunity of going in and out of the city front and to Buntyn's Station, four times a day, so as to make a residence at this point almost as convenient as to live in the city itself.

The choice can now be had of lots wholly or part in original forest, or in field.

In Exchange for City Property.

The executors are directed by the Will to sell this place and invest in city property, and we will receive propositions to exchange for either improved or vacant lots in the city.

To all parties looking for a suburban residence, we do not think any property more desirable can be found, in regard to health, convenience or good neighborhood, within the same distance from the city.

The terms will be made very liberal and easy, and the prices low to parties desirous of buying for occupation. Plans of the subdivision will be shown at our office.

FROM OUR ALABAMA CORRESPONDENCE.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Having just returned from a somewhat extended journey through Mississippi and Alabama, a few "jottings by rail" may be found interesting to your readers.

Leaving Memphis by the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad, for Grenada, I was enabled to see the condition of the crops between those points thoughout that prolific country known as North Mississippi, which are in a flourishing condition, and I was rejoiced to see that the planters had profited by the bitter lesson of the past season, and had planted fully three-fourths of their cultivated lands in the cereals, and if their present prospects are realized, they will be entirely independent of the great "grain reg[illegible] the northwest" during the co[illegible]ason, instead of having to in[illegible]de last year for [illegible]oats look fine, and [illegible]een harvested, and [illegible]verage crop. The [illegible] is very good, and [illegible] healt[illegible] and vig[illegible] "[illegible]rass." [illegible]Cen[illegible] [illegible]ough [illegible] better state [illegible]ltiva[illegible] neighborhood of Jackson, [illegible]ters have employed [illegible]stead of the unrelia[illegible]ber;" and those with [illegible] are much pleased [illegible] work steadily [illegible]day, under [illegible]e of [illegible] couple of [illegible]g sing[illegible] they [illegible]ound [illegible]eir q[illegible]rs, the [illegible] p[illegible]oining in the ci[illegible] with a [illegible]as t[illegible]h they had been doing no[illegible]g bu[illegible] smoking and drinking lager the [illegible] lo[illegible] day. By the way, speaking of lager reminds me of the only complaint I heard from them, was the absence of this, their favorite beverage. From Jackson I took the southern route for Meridian, and along this line about two-thirds of the lands are in corn, which is looking very fine, and gives assurances of a large yield; the cotton also looks very well, and is in excellent order. After a long dusty ride I reached Meridian, which place is fondly remembered by every soldier of the southwest for its elegant hotels. Here I was beset by numerous parties, as ragged and dirty as a member of the mackerel brigade, who loudly asserted the superiority of their respective (would that I could add respectable) houses. On inquiring of a friend which I should select, I was told that "there was no difference, other than the fact that the Ragsdale had the best omnibus." So I concluded to revive old memories and associations linked with the war, and went to the Jones house, but room "No. 40," which every soldier will remember, had disappeared, having been converted into some dozen closets, called by courtesy rooms. Having been shown to my room, I suggested that some water would be acceptable. "Which will you have, sir, common water, or ice water?" asked the clerk; expressing a preference for the latter, I sought my bed, and such a bed; but I shall draw a musquito-bar over the scene, as I would have done over that bed, had there been one.

From Meridian to Mobile, the line of the Mobile and Ohio railroad runs through a sterile, piny woods region, and at Winchester I noticed a garrison of troops; and from Capt. Pettus, the conductor, I learned that it was a commissary depot, and was furnishing supplies to those who lived in the interior, who were in a starving condition.

Mobile is very dull, and, if possible, more so than Memphis, and every one complaining of hard times, particularly the newspaper men; and notwithstanding their excellent market, which is filled with vegetables of every description, as well as choice meats and fish; there is no hotel there worthy of being called one save, perhaps, the Battle House, the chief claims of which are its prices, which, like those of everything else there, are "first class."

Whilst in the city I concluded to visit that well-known watering place, Point Clear, and accordingly took passage on the Ocean Wave, one of the three coast steamers that ply in the bay, and after a rough voyage arrived there, and was welcomed by my old friend, Gen. T. C. McMackin, the "boy quartermaster" of the Confederate States army, who is keeping it as only he can keep an hotel, together with the assistance of his estimable lady, and after the fare at the Jones and the Battle houses, I was fully prepared to do justice to the excellent supper set for our party. This is one of the most delightful retreats I have ever seen. The accommodations are superb, the roo[illegible]ing large and well ventilated, a[illegible]ble of accommodating some five [illegible] guests, with wide verandahs [illegible] the whole length, and lo[illegible] across the bay. The [illegible] bowling alleys, billiard [illegible], lit up by gas, prese[illegible] beautiful view from the steamer a[illegible] in, and the brilliant dining r[illegible] with its splendid chandeliers, s[illegible] men and fine fare, to say nothing of the venerable host perambu[illegible] the room with a kind word for all, [illegible] pauses in calling out his bill of [illegible] makes one think that it is indeed best in the world." A good bath with the salt spray dashing over you, and then to a large airy room, where you fall to sleep to the music of the surf dashing against the beach, and sleep in sweet oblivion of cholera and business, is glorious indeed, and will not soon be forgotten by those who have tried it.

Our return trip from the point on the Clyde steamer Rio Grande was anything but pleasant, as we encountered a terrible thunderstorm, which came near sending us all to Davy Jones' locker, but our good steamer buffeted the waves nobly, and landed us safely at the pier, though during the storm we passed a bark or schooner which had been dashed on a wreck and was going to pieces. Returning via Corinth, I noticed that through the prairie lands of Mississippi about one-half the land was in cotton, which [illegible]very fine, and in [illegible] the plants were in bloom, [illegible] the planters were in excellent spirits.

SPECIAL.

From the Southern Opinion, Richmond, 15.]

The Shenandoah valley is recovering from the devastation of war. It is said that the farmers there will probably have the finest and largest wheat crops this year ever raised in that prolific region. The lower counties of the valley are fast filling up with Pennsylvanians, who purchase all farms that are offered for sale.

Immigration to this state is quietly but steadily progressing. We note various indications of this fact. Our land agencies are frequently applied to for information, and many come to see for themselves and stay. In Nottoway one of these visitors has recently bought a tract of two thousand acres at twenty dollars per acre, and a smaller body of land on James river, below Petersburg, for $5000 in gold. Four acres and a half of the old Powhatan place, on James river, was sold some time since to a company of capitalists for the large sum of $9000. Near Martinsburg a farm of one hundred and eighty-one and a half acres has been purchased by a New Yorker at $80 per acre. In the neighborhood of Bolivar, near Harper's Ferry, northern parties have taken a farm of one hundred and eighty-five acres at $50 per acre, the land having little fencing and no timber. In Lexington the local press remark the rapid enhancement in value of real estate. Lynchburg has large iron works in process of erection in its vicinity, all the sharers in the enterprise coming from abroad. In every direction we can see evidences of a revival of material prosperity in the Old Dominion.

A turnpike is soon to be opened between Suffolk and Portsmouth, which will shorten the distance between those places seven and a half miles, besides rendering the land about Suffolk more attractive to northern capital, which is already seeking investment in that vicinity.

The Page Valley railroad is a promising enterprise that is said to be in the hands of the right men, who are taking energetic steps to have the road built. It will open a fertile region. The Valley railroad is also being pushed with spirit. Lynchburg is busy over the projected railroad to Danville, and Danville and Norfolk propose a road leading from the latter city through the former, indefinitely southwestward. We have not space to particularize all the improvements of this kind that are mentioned by the daily press.

The trade of Alexandria is improving. Flour is being brought there in quantities that revive recollections of the good old times. Since the opening of the corn exchange, there have been offered and sold, in thirteen days, 58,700 bushels of corn, besides large offerings of other products.

The planting of tobacco is progressing finely. In Pittsylvania one gentleman alone has planted 150,000 hills, and others nearly as many. We hear of three large planters who will aggregate this season 2,500,000 plants.

Fredericksburg remains in ashes, if not in sackcloth also. It is said that there is not a single building of any size in process of erection there.

The people of the Piedmont section are largely engaged in wool-growing and sheep-raising.

The James river and Kanawha turnpike is to be soon put in good repair and kept so, under contract, by a competent party. This is cheering to those mediating a trip this season to the White Sulphur.

—A man attracted some attention in Louisville a few days since, by riding on a spotted bull and leading a cream colored colt.

LATE FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Both of the administration papers here demand the removal of Gen. Sheridan, and dispatches have been sent to the president at Boston urging his removal. It is well understood here that nothing will be done in the premises until the president returns.

The Surratt trial to-day related wholly to the pursuit and capture of Booth by one of the Garretts, at whose farmhouse Booth remained two days. He gave an interesting statement of the latter's sojourn there, but it contained nothing relative to the prisoner.

Col. Conger repeated his testimony of the details as to Booth's death, and testified that the diary which was produced in court was in the same condition as when he took it from Booth's person.

Robert Lincoln was among the spectators in court to-day, in company with Congressman Judd, of Illinois.

The prisoner evinced the deepest interest over the testimony relating to the last hours of Booth, and when the diary was produced examined it in company with his counsel for at least twenty minutes. They immediately examined that portion of the book where the leaves had been cut out, and even used a magnifying glass to see if something could not be detected not apparent to the naked eye. Afterwards the jury examined the diary, firearms and breast-pin, all taken from the body of Booth.

The house judiciary committee assembles to-morrow to close up the impeachment investigation. Several members of congress arrived in town to-night. It is said that more evidence will be taken this week.

The commissioner of the general land office is in receipt of returns from the local office at Huntsville, Alabama, showing that during the months of April and May last, five hundred and fifty-five farms, comprising in the aggregate 41,892 acres, have been added to the productive force of that state under the acts of congress, approved June 21, 1866, providing for the disposal of the public lands for homestead and actual settlement in the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Florida.

Thirty-four senators have written that they will be here in one week from to-morrow, which makes four more than a quorum.

The joint or house committee met to-day, with Senator Cameron and Messrs. Butler and Schenck, of the house, present.

Senators Drake and Logan will arrive to-morrow to make up a quorum.

John Hoy, charge d'affairs at Vienna, is about to leave for that place.

Gen. Campbell, Indian agent, arrived in this city last evening direct from Old Fort Sully, Dacotah territory. He states that the Sioux Indians in that territory have recently become very troublesome, killing white traders, stealing horses, etc.

Gen. Sickles' request to the war department to be relieved from his command has been denied.

It is learned from an authoritative source that Gen. Grant to-day replied to Gen. Sheridan's dispatch relative to the president's telegram suggesting a postponement of the registration in Louisiana, but declined to furnish a copy of the reply for publication.

[COMMUNICATED.]
RIPLEY, LAUDERDALE CO., TENN.,
June 22, 1867.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Inclosed please find five dollars, my subscription to the WEEKLY APPEAL, a paper that I have taken regularly from the first number that was issued—consequently you must know that I am a democrat. Notwithstanding, I consider the paper as ably edited at this time as it ever was, and I indorse its sentiments as fully as I ever did.

I am particularly pleased with your articles on former political parties. All were wrong; all now see the folly of making the elective franchise cheap, too cheap to be appreciated. But how are we to get back to the old landmarks? is the question. For one I am for standing firm on my rights so far as to give no help to the minions of power to shackle us. If my liberties are denied me it shall not be my work. I will reclaim them when I can.

There were only eight mules stolen from the vicinity of Durhamville, last Sunday night. Who can expect better things when our governor stands ready with his pardons for all such, provided they will claim to have stolen from the secesh? which they will do, of course. But in this instance I learn they took some from Brownlow's best friends.

What think you? Will the next legislature, if radical, pass a bill to pay all good loyal men for their slaves they lost by emancipation, and tax the state to do it? This will cost us several hundred millions. But an[illegible]g for plunder with the rulers [illegible]ennessee.

Respectfully yours,
VINDEX.

[illegible]E ITEMS.

—The commencement exercises of [illegible]banon college began on Tuesday and [illegible]l last throughout this week. Many strangers are assembling from Nashville and other points in and out of this state, for the occasion.

—The Union and Dispatch of the 25th inst[illegible] says: A gentleman who left [illegible] on Sunday evening at half-pas[illegible] [illegible]orms us that news had reached [illegible]e that Brownlow could not li[illegible]nty-four hours. The report says his physicians had informed him of the fact, but he persisted in saying they were mistaken, as he had no notion of "shuffling off this mortal coil" so soon. Having fulfilled the measure of his [illegible]lessness, the death of Gov. Brow[illegible] would be a fortunate event, not only [illegible] Tennessee, but the country at large!

—On Saturday, at a radical meeting at Lebanon, the radicals brewed a nice little muss between opposing factions of their own party, resulting in the shooting of a negro named Carney by Capt. Hathaway, of the militia, and the inglorious flight of the valiant Stokes, who, true to the blackguard instincts of his nature, "retired cursing."

—J. H. Hipkins, bureau superintendent at Gallatin, has been indicted by the grand jury of Sumner county for attempted violation of a young girl only fourteen years of age. The other bureau rascal in that region attempts to palliate the conduct of his confrere by calling the villainous outrage "an indiscretion." This last mentioned scamp is a Capt. Walsh.

—An attempt was made to assassinate Mrs. Gov. Foote at Nashville on Monday by a pistol shot, but no clue has been discovered of the would-be murderer, or from whence the shot was fired, that penetrated the window near the spot where Mrs. Foote was standing.

—The negro employees of Mr. Lane, a worthy farmer of Williamson county, were assured by a negro radical, named Uncle John Buford, that they would be sent to the penitentiary if they failed to attend Brownlow meetings, or to vote for that exemplar of every virtue, for governor! The negro Buford subsequently declared he got his information from the union league at Nashville, and believed instruction from headquarters must be obeyed. It is thus, by every vile subterfuge, the freedmen are deluded by the radicals in Tennessee.

ALABAMA ITEMS.

—The Daily Advertiser of the 23d says: Registration at Mobile on Saturday last was decidedly brisk. At seven o'clock p.m., 138 whites and 575 blacks had registered, making a total of 713.

—Mr. Jack Martin, an engineer on the West Point and Montgomery railroad, on Friday last bravely rescued two little girls from drowning at the hazard of his own life. They had accidentally fallen into a pond.

—The Elmira Messenger mentions the arrest of W. W. Carricker, of that county, on Wednesday last, for an attempt to poison Mr. Jeptha Graham. In default of $1000 bail bond, the former was committed to prison to await trial for this most un-American crime.

—The Mobile Battle house, we learn from the Tribune, has passed into the hands of Capt. A. M. Godfrey, who, it is believed, knows how "to keep a hotel."

—The Huntsville Independent, of the 25th instant, says the office for registration was opened in that place on last Monday, and from an early hour was thronged by freedmen anxious to be clothed with the elective franchise. On the first day of the registering it footed up, colored 308, and whites 112; or a total of 420. The same paper mentions the sudden death of Gen. R. M. Lowe, sr., on Saturday morning of heart disease. The general was in business in New Orleans, and had come to Huntsville to spend the summer with his relatives.

—The Richmond Examiner says: A portion of the remains of the celebrated Confederate ram Merrimac, which run the famous Monitor all around Hampton Roads on a certain memorable April day, was brought up to the city. It consisted of iron and pieces of old cannon which had been purchased by one of our large manufacturing firms. Most of it has seen Richmond before "in happier times." Among the old metal brought up was a large rifle gun marked C. S. N., which was uninjured and in tolerable good condition. All the other guns were destroyed when when the ram was blown up."

—The Raleigh Sentinel says there is a rumor, supposed to be well founded, that the radicals of North Carolina have determined to use efforts to induce the colored people to register, and vote against a convention. The argument to be used is, that this is the best means of bringing about confiscation.

—A cannon ball with immense destructive powers has been invented. When fired, two swords fly out like wings, presenting an awful appearance, while its penetrating power is greater than any other ball ever invented.

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

NEW YORK, June 27.—A New Orleans special says Mayor Heath has announced to the city council a fraudulent over issue of $400,000 of city notes by the city treasurer. The mayor says that the city cannot be made liable for the redemption of the over issue. City scrip has depreciated two and a half per cent. Merchants utterly refuse to receive it in business transactions.

Gov. Wells, owing to the inactivity of the Washington administration in his case, has determined to issue a proclamation declaring himself governor and Flanders a usurper, and declaring null and void his subsequent and future acts, and directing civil officers not to obey his orders. This he believes to be in accordance with the law, as expressed in the attorney-general's opinion. This will no doubt compel the president to act in the premises. It is said that Wells takes this course by advice of several lawyers here. His proclamation will be issued in a day or two, unless the president interferes.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The sentiment of the dozen congressmen now here regarding the July session, is that it will be a short one, with provision for a contingent meeting in October. Gov. Boutwell, who heads the impeachment report, will be brought up during the July session.

HARTFORD, June 27.—Salutes were fired on the arrival of the president, and the mayor delivered a speech of welcome. The reception of the president was enthusiastic. The party left to-day for New Haven.

CONSISTENCY.

The New York Herald has an article on "The Insurrectionary War in Crete," in which it begins by declaring that "no greater wrong has been perpetrated or permitted in Europe than that which is now being committed in Crete."

It says:

"No one can deny the right of a government to strive to put down rebellion within the circle of its own sovereignty. It is not for us, after the struggle through which we have recently passed, to deny that right. It is extremely difficult to determine how long the insurrectionary struggle must be prolonged before the party in rebellion are entitled to the support and protection of the neighboring states and nations. Four years of practical independence did not reconcile us to the thought of interference in any shape or form by other nations in favor of the south. The Cretan struggle has lasted scarcely a year. Unless, therefore, Crete is to be considered an exceptional case, it is difficult to show reason why Turkey should desist in her endeavors to put down rebellion in that island.

It then undertakes to show that Crete is an exceptional case. It says that in 1830, the allied Powers handed Crete over to the Viceroy of Egypt, and in 1840 it was restored to the Ottoman Government: that the majority of its population are Greek and Christian; and that when the independence of Greece was guaranteed in 1831, Crete ought to have been included.

That is very poor special pleading. Crete has for centuries been part of the Turkish dominions. It was not severed from them in 1830, for Egypt was subject to the Ottoman, and the attempt to sever it was an outrage on the rights of Turkey, which was only atoned for in 1840. The majority of the population of whole Provinces of Turkey is Greek and Christian.

The Herald concludes by saying:

It may be difficult to say what it is best to do with the unhappy islanders, under the circumstances, but it is now no longer doubtful that the time has fully come when the great powers ought to interfere to prevent this unnecessary and wholesale butchery.

When the European monarchies sympathized with the United States in their determination to crush the attempt of the South to win independence, and looked on while we struggled four years without recognition or interference, they did so in the interest of legitimacy, against the inherent rights of States capable of governing themselves to assert their Nationality; and they estopped the United Stat[illegible] forever to interfere in behalf of any European people asserting a right to independence and self-government. It was the cause of Ireland, Hungary, Crete, Venice, and every other oppressed people, that was being argued with cannon and musketry, and decided by "unnecessary and wholesale butchery," on this side of the Atlantic. For the United States now to sympathize with European revolutionists would be as shameless and indecent as it was, after Charleston had been bombarded four hundred days, not to reduce it, but to gratify a miserable malice and hate, for KILPATRICK to protest, in the name of the United States, against a few hours' bombardment of Valparaiso.

Yes: Crete is entitled to assistance; and the Great Powers ought to interfere, although she has not fought a year for her independence. And it is the shame and dishonour of England and France that they did not recognize the Confederate States. France is already punished by the disgraceful issue of her attempt to sustain MAXIMILIAN in Mexico, which would have succeeded, if we had won our independence: and England will [illegible] be punished by the loss of Canada. [illegible] Southern States have ample cause [illegible] and despise both Governments, [illegible] the Emperor and that of the [illegible]ver, since men began to [illegible]pendence, was a people [illegible]titled to recognition as [illegible] people a better [illegible] one fought so [illegible] of that right; [illegible] so basely per[illegible] crushed and [illegible] have their IMPORTANT OPINION BY CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE.

Chief Justice Chase returned here last night, and has supplied a copy of an important opinion which he has just delivered in the United States circuit court in North Carolina, wherein he decided that debts due to citizens of loyal states are not discharged by payment to rebel receivers. The chief justice elaborates in this opinion his legal views on the relations of the states lately in rebellion to the United States government. He says that there is no doubt that the state of North Carolina, by the acts of the convention of May, 1861, by the previous acts of the government of the state, by subsequent acts of all the departments of the state government, and of the people at the election held after May, 1861, set aside her state government and constitution connected, under the national constitution, with the government of the United States, and established a constitution and government set up in hostility to the United States, and entered upon a course of active warfare against the national government. Nor is there any doubt that by these acts the practical relations of North Carolina to the union were suspended, and very serious liabilities incurred by those who were engaged in them. But these acts did not affect, even for a moment, the separation of North Carolina from the union, any more than the acts of an individual who commits grave offenses against the state, by resisting its officers and defying its authority, can separate himself from the state. Such acts may subject the offender even to outlawry, but cannot discharge him from duty nor relieve him from responsibility.

With regard to the repeal of the North Carolina ordinance of 1789, by which ordinance she joined the union, the chief justice says that no elaborate discussion of the theoretical question thus presented seems now to be necessary; that the question, as a practical one, is at rest, and is not likely to be renewed. It is enough to say here, that, in the opinion of the court, the answer which it has received from events is that which the soundest construction of the constitution warrants and requires. Nor can we agree, he says, with some persons distinguished by abilities and virtues, who insist that when rebellion attains the proportions and assumes the character of civil war, it is purged of its treasonable character, and can only be punished by the defeat of its armies, the disappointment of its hopes, and the calamities incident to unsuccessful war. Courts have no policy; they can only declare the law. On what sound principles, then, can we say, judicially, that the levying of war ceases to be treason when the war becomes formidable? that, though war levied by ten men or one thousand is certainly treason, it is no longer such when levied by ten thousand or one million? that the armed attempts of a few, attended by no serious danger to the union, and suppressed by slight exertions of the public force, come unquestionably within the constitutional definition; but that attempts by vast combinations, controlling several states, putting great armies in the field, menacing with eminent peril the very life of the republic, and demanding immense efforts and immense expenditures of treasure and blood for their defeat and suppression, swell beyond the boundaries of the definition and become innocent in the proportion of their enormity? But it is said that this is the doctrine of the supreme court. We think otherwise. The fact that cartels are made and prisoners of war exchanged, and that the military chiefs are treated without surrender of essential principles, like foreign foes, are regarded by the chief justice as concessions made by the legislative and executive departments of the government in the exercise of political discretion, in the interest of humanity, to mitigate passions inflamed by civil conflicts, and to prevent the frightful evils of mutual reprisals and relations. They establish no rights, except during the war.

The chief justice then says: When the strife of arms is over, wise governments, therefore, exercising still their political discretion, address themselves mainly to the work of conciliation and restoration, and exert the prerogative of mercy rather than that of justice. Complete remission is usually extended to large classes by amnesty or other exercise of legislative or executive authority, and individuals not included in these classes, with some exceptions of the greatest offenders, are absolved by pardon—either absolutely or upon conditions prescribed by the government. These principles, common to all civilized nations, are they which regulated the action of the United States during the war of the rebellion, and have regulated its action since the rebellion laid down its arms, and while hostilities were yet flagrant on account of it. Congress practically abolished the death penalty for treason, and subsequently provided a mode in which citizens of rebel states, maintaining a loyal adhesion to the union, could recover, after the war, the value of their captured or abandoned property. The national government has steadily sought to facilitate restoration, with adequate guarantees of union, order and civil rights. On no occasion, however, and by no act, have the United States ever renounced their constitutional jurisdiction over the whole territory or over all the citizens of the republic, or conceded to citizens in arms against their country the character of alien enemies, or to their pretended government the character of a de facto government. Those who engage in rebellion must expect the consequences. If they succeed, rebellion becomes revolution, and the new government will justify its founders; if they fail, all their acts hostile [illegible] the rightful government are violation[illegible] and originate no rights which [illegible] nized by the court[illegible] authority and existence ha[illegible] assailed.

Every one knew, of course, what Mr. Chief Justice CHASE would decide, just as they know what THAD. STEVENS would decide about confiscation, if he were appointed Judge to-morrow. The opinions of political partizans, deciding political questions, only bring the judiciary into disrepute. Such an opinion is not worth the paper it is written on. CHASE was a tolerable lawyer, in no way very eminent, but still more, intus et in cute, to the very core of his soul, an unprincipled politician. When the fugitive slave law was odious to Ohio, he was an ultra State-rights man, ready to engage in armed opposition, if necessary, to the execution of a law of the United States; though then Governor of Ohio, and sworn to support the Constitution of the United States. He made a very commonplace and mediocre Senator, and a very ordinary Secretary of the Treasury. His appointment to the office of Chief Justice was an outrage, when there were a thousand jurists of greater ability, reputation and learning in the Northern States. Soon after he was appointed he disgraced the ermine he wore by going about and making partizan speeches, committing himself to the very decision he has now made.

It is this very evil, of putting partizans, of known political and factious principles and preconceptions, on the Supreme Bench, that has destroyed the value and influence of that court, so that its decisions on political questions are simply worthless, and for the most part rather the arguments and special pleadings of interested advocates, than the announcements of judicial conclusions.

Three-fourths of the opinion, the substance of which is given above, and especially that portion of it in respect to civil war not ceasing to be treason, had nothing whatever to do with the case before the court, and are simply a stump speech made by SALMON P. CHASE on the Bench. He had evidently gotten the harangue ready for the first opportunity to discharge it, and it was a matter of no great consideration to him whether it fitted the case or not.

Republican government is a failure every way: but it is especially so as to the Judicial Department, by far the most important of all to the people. Give a people upright and independent Courts, and one form of government is as good as another. With these, even American republicanism might be tolerable, with its dictatorships of a vain, inflated, insolent, unprincipled press; dishonesty in all public affairs, and in stock gambling, banking, and speculation; subserviency of the press and public men to the popular caprice; the nonsense of the populace governing; and rascality, corruption, folly, malice and hatred making laws.

Nobody looks now to the Judiciary to learn what the truth is in regard to any question whatever with which political considerations are connected. The Courts are rapidly becoming mischievous and despicable, and so soon as Radicalism puts two or three more of its minions on the Bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, that court will become a public nuisance and a public curse, as its Chief Justice already is. A dishonest Judge, that is, one who decides contrary to what he knows to be right, is a plague, a calamity and a curse, inflicted upon a country which Heaven thus takes the most effectual means to punish for its manifold iniquities.

UNDERWOOD, BUSTEED and CHASE, Judges! littered by that fruitful dam, Black Republicanism, "mox datura progeniem vitiosiorem," soon to spawn a progeny even more vicious!—these prove what a contemptible failure the judicial department of a Republic is sure at last to become. The Monarch will always appoint better Judges than the Demagogue. HE HAS NO INTEREST TO HAVE INJUSTICE PRONOUNCED AS LAW, IN CONTROVERSIES BETWEEN MAN AND MAN.

In fact, to give a Court jurisdiction to decide political questions, and then to appoint known partizans and hackneyed, spavined and glandered politicians to be judges, is worse than highway robbery and petty larceny combined. It is to deprave the law and poison the very springs of justice; and make all rights be holden by uncertain tenure. It unsettles all the axioms of judicial interpretation and judicial morality, and makes the uprightness of legislation to become its knavery.

One is sick at heart when he thinks of the dissenting opinion of four Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States, maintaining by dishonest sophistry the validity of those legislative villainies, test-oaths; of the Tennessee decision maintaining the constitutionality of the disfranchisement of a third of the citizens of the State, for political offences whereof there have been no convictions; and of the decision of the majority of the Supreme Court of Louisiana on the worthlessness of notes given before the war for the purchase-money of negroes. Without an honest and independent judiciary, and when the fortunes and lives of men depend on judicial knaveries and judicial sycophancy of Power, one feels like a mariner in the Northern seas, when, the sun unseen for months, the needle no longer points to the North, and the Laws of GOD seem to be repealed.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

We are indebted to the Hon. JOHN W. LEFTWICH, for the following public [illegible]uments:

Report of Com. of the Ho. of Rep. on the Civil Service of the U. State.

Report of Survey of the Upper Mississippi.

Report in reference to the survey and improvement of the Rapids of the Mississippi.

Message with information as to captured and forfeited Cotton.

Report of Sec. of War, on River and Harbor Improvements on the Western and Northwestern States.

Digest of Laws relating to Duties on Imposts.

Report on frauds in the New York Custom House.

Report as to the alleged murder of some Union Soldiers in South Carolina.

These documents are principally significant as showing how little interest the South has in the legislation of the country, except so far as it is libelled and plundered. The improvements are for the North, the oppression for the South. They take the Stars and we the Stripes.

The following account of the cotton speculations of the Government is interesting:

ABANDONED COTTON.

Number of bales of cotton received as abandoned	11,180
Number of bales improperly taken as abandoned and released by the department	1,907
Number of bales of cotton sold as abandoned	9,273
Gross proceeds of sales of 9,273 bales sold as abandoned	$2,[illegible]2,271 69
Amount paid to claimants for cotton improperly taken and sold as abandoned	668,028 68
Amount paid to contractors for collecting, transporting and delivering abandoned cotton to agents at designated points	[illegible],646 08
All other expenses, including freight and charges paid to quartermasters on account of abandoned cotton	180,946 67
Net amount realized by the United States on account of abandoned cotton	1,739,650 28

CAPTURED COTTON.

Number of bales of cotton received as captured	156,387
Number of bales improperly taken, or detained as captured and released	18,485

(It is proper to say in explanation of this item that after the surrender the secretary was reliably informed that large quantities of cotton, which had been claimed by the so-called Confederate government, were being stolen and otherwise wrongfully taken by individuals, and that he thereupon directed agents to take possession of, and detain for investigation, all cotton which they had good reason to believe should be treated as captured, and to promptly examine into the facts, and, if satisfied that it was captured, to forward it as such, or, if not so satisfied, to deliver it back to the persons from whom it was taken. But the agents were required to report their action in all such cases, and hence a large quantity of such cotton seems to have been treated as captured, when the fact is that it was merely detained for examination, and was released to owners upon failure by agents to show a right to treat it as captured property.)

Expenses, such as salaries to agents, pay to clerks and other employees connected with the various agencies, and all other matters not charged on other accounts above stated	$ 18[illegible]4,536 84
Net amount from this source	[illegible],342 37
[illegible]al amount received by the Unit[illegible] [illegible] from various sources as above stated	$31,[illegible]52,809 54

Total amount of expenses paid, including expenses of collection, transportation, agents, salaries, and compensation, and all other expenses of every description connected with the execution of the various acts, so far as adjusted or ascertained	4,469,345 01

I am, very respectfully, your ob't, serv't.,
H. McCULLOCH,
Secretary of the Treasury.
THE PRESIDENT.

GERRIT SMITH ON RECONSTRUCTION.

That Veteran Abolitionist, GERRIT SMITH, thus concludes a letter on the subject of his being bail for President DAVIS, and on the policy of the country generally:

I made but two requirements of the south. I make but two of the north. In the first place, she must relieve the disfranchised class of the southern whites of their political disabilities. No possible good can come from this disfranchisement, and its effects on both blacks and whites are bad, very bad. Instead of diminishing the political influence of its subjects, it does, by means of the sympathy which it begets for them, increase it. It is true that the intent of the disfranchisement was not to set the blacks above the whites, but the loyal above the disloyal. Nevertheless, it does set the blacks above the whites; and, by thus irritating the one and inflating the other, it works evil to both. In the next place, the north must hasten to put an end to these threats of confiscation. Congress ought to say without one dissenting voice, and at the earliest day, that there should be no confiscation. The disfranchisement I have just referred to is galling, and as the masses believe, insulting to its subjects. But these threats, paralizing the industry of the south, and making even her bread uncertain, are infinitely less bearable. They are fatally in the way of her material prosperity. With the cloud they bring upon her titles she can neither sell her lands or borrow upon them. What could be a more trying disability to an agricultural people who are destitute of money? That strong and patriotic man, Thaddeus Stevens, would have certain losses of loyal men repaired. I would myself be glad to see a liberal percentage paid upon them. He would provide the means out of confiscation and at the expense of the south; I out of the national treasury, and at the expense of the nation. There are three things which, in urging confiscation, Mr. Stevens seems to forget. First, that the north, as well as the south, was guilty of the war; second, that while the north is still very rich, the south, exhausted by that war for which the north in common with herself was responsible, is exceedingly poor; third, that confiscation, once entered upon, it will be difficult if not impossible to see limits to the spread of its demoralizing power. The spirit of lawless greed engendered by confiscation will no more stop at state or other lines than will the flames of a prairie fire at the word of command. Let there be confiscation in the south for the benefit of these, Mr. Stevens' loyal losers, and also for the benefit of the poor blacks, as he also proposes, and very soon, under its debauching influence, immense numbers at the north will be clamoring, in the name of "Agrarianism," "Equalization," and other taking names, for their neighbors' possessions. And these rich possessions, it must be remembered, will kindle the spirit of robbery, as can none of the poor possessions of the desolated south. These four requirements responded to, these four conditions of "reconstruction" exacted, and no others exacted, peace between the north and south will be sure to follow. But to make this peace more speedy and more cordial—in other words, to effect with the least delay an enduring heart union between the north and south, there must be one thing more. Our government is getting in the way of buying territory. There is a purchase it can make which would be immeasurably more important and profitable than the purchase of any territory. Let it buy the southern heart, worth more to us than a thousand Alaskas, nay, than all Russia. There is one way, and only one way, by which it can be bought, and that is by proving to the south that the north loves her—that the north has a heart to give in exchange for her heart. Political concessions and liberal terms of "reconstruction" do not prove it. They pass for but the cold calculations of cold statesmanship. Let the government, in the light of the fact that the north is largely responsible for the war and is still rich, while her sister is impoverished, use ten or twenty millions in ways most essential to relieve the sufferings of the south, and let it also exonerate her from direct federal taxes for a few years, and the south will then believe that we pity and love her, and our producing this belief in her will be our buying of her heart. One thing more in this connection—the streams of private charity from the north to the south should be deepened and multiplied. And how, too, could the government use fifty millions more in a wiser way than in lending it on a moderate interest, say five per cent., to the seceded states—to each of them its proportion of the loan, estimating that proportion by the amount of its population, and the amount of its material losses in the war? A condition of the loan should be that the state in each case shall wisely and humanely distribute its said proportion among owners of real estate in return for mortgages thereon, drawing, say, but very little if any more interest than the state has to pay. Would this be to overlook the landless poor, and to fall in with the bad maxim—"Let government take care of the rich and the rich will take care of the poor?" Oh, no; this would be to make room for the labor of the landless poor, and for their acquisition of means to become landholders themselves. Moreover, there are exceedingly few men in the south who remain rich. But it will be said that all this will cost a great deal of money. The greater the cost, the greater the proof of our love. But the cost will be little, compared with the gain that will come of it. This investment in the southern heart will be unspeakably the best investment the nation ever made. Even in a mere pecuniary view, no other will compare with it—the heart union between the north and south, which it will produce having more effect than aught else to raise the credit of our nation with capitalists. Were the union of the north and south cemented by their natural love, our government could borrow at an interest not exceeding four per cent. This problem of peace between the north and the south!—how difficult it is for our statesmen to solve it! But how easily could love solve it! Let the north and south love each other, and, as they then will, forgive and help and bless each other. This will be peace! and nothing short of it will deserve to be called peace! Into the enjoyment of this true peace the nation should have entered more than two years ago. From the time that the south surrendered, no man and no woman either in the north or in the south should any longer have known, in our political strifes and divisions, a north or a south. Hearts estranged from each other by the war and its antecedents should then have begun to flow together in so strong a love for the nation as would save it forever from being broken asunder.

PETERSBURG, June 6, 1867.

—Wm. Lloyd Garrison, the notorious abolitionist, has been tendered a public breakfast in London, at which John Bright is to preside.

—A down east paper is trying to prove that Andy Johnson's ancestors were New England yankees. Should it succeed, the establishment of the fact will no doubt exercise an immense influence upon the future destinies of the country.

—Helper, the man who wrote the "Impending Crisis" a short time before the war, has just published another book, in which he proposes to give all the negroes notice to quit the United States by a given time. The darkeys will conclude this abolitionist an indifferent Helper after all.

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

WASHINGTON, June 27.—In the Surratt trial to-day W. R. Conyer testified that he thought he saw the prisoner at St. Albans on Tuesday or Wednesday after the assassination.

Edward A. Sawles testified to seeing the same person there on the 18th of April.

Mrs. E. W. Clermont, through a great deal of circumlocution, endeavored to testify that Surratt was in Washington on the day of the assassination.

NEW HAVEN, June 27.—The president left Hartford this morning, and was received at the depot here with cheers from a large crowd, and escorted to the City hall by the military. A salute was fired, the bells rung and flags displayed. Gov. English introduced the president to the mayor, who extended to him a welcome. The president returned thanks for this manifestation of respect, not only to him as a citizen, but as chief magistrate of the country, and said: "I have tried to be president of the whole United States, and not of a part thereof. There are two kinds of courage, one physical, which enables men to meet on the battle-field; the other is a moral one, which gives a man strength to stand in the council of nations, and face those who may endeavor to overthrow our liberties. In the midst of all this, I had but one anchor from which I never permitted myself to be cut loose. Conscientious conviction was my courage, the public good my [illegible]m, and the constitution my [illegible] further stated that the [illegible] and the skies are becoming [illegible] then why could they not all unite in common effort to restore peace and concord to the country. The President was frequently applauded, and three cheers were given at the close of his remarks. Mr. Seward was also introduced, and made a few remarks of a complimentary nature. He said: What I have observed in Connecticut is that her people have a wonderful faculty, not only for teaching, but also for making a great many things out it. If it is peace, they make a profit, and if it is war, it is in making warlike instruments; and I am happy to state that I see a diffusion of knowledge in your state which keeps pace with your skill in labor. The postmaster general also responded to a call for him.

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—The city treasurer publishes a statement of the amount of notes issued, and by what authority, and denying Mayor Heath's power to repudiate any portion, and continues to receive them for debts due the city, without distinction.

The action of Mayor Heath in regard to the city currency is universally condemned.

The suit against Jacob Barker by the depositors, for embezzleing $21,000, was on trial to-day.

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—The river is falling, with four feet nine inches in the canal.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—At a meeting of the citizens to-day resolutions were adopted appointing a committee of twenty-five persons to wait upon the president on his arrival here, and invite him and the party to visit the city and partake of its hospitalities and courtesies.

WILKSBORO, PA., June 27.—Hon. Chas. Dennison, member of congress, died here to-day.

OBITUARY.

At the residence of his mother, 275 Poplar street, on Tuesday evening, the 25th inst., in the communion of the Catholic church, BENJAMIN CHAMBERS BRADFORD, aged seventeen years, beloved and only son of Mrs. Annie Chambers Ketchum—a Candidate for Holy Orders in the Diocese of Tennessee.

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

"The light of his young life went down,
As sinks behind the hill
The glory of a setting star,
Clear, suddenly, and still.
Alone unto our Father's will,
This thought hath reconciled,
That He, whose love exceedeth ours,
Hath taken home His child."

DIED.

Died June 6th, 1867, in Madison county, Tenn., after a short illness, SARAH JANE ESTES, wife of B. M. Estes, of this city.

What a volume of unutterable sorrow is contained in the brief words above—in a moment uttered, how long and painfully will their echo thrill the hearts of those whose blessed privilege it was to love her. And who that knew her failed to love? Hers were the sweet womanly grace—soft, winning, gentle manners, and rare beauty of person, which irr[illegible] attract all hearts coming within their influence. But far above and beyond her rare natural endowments, the charms of a mind cultivated and refined was the bright aureole of Christian light, which, encircling her, diffused itself throughout her happy household, and extended its rays to the outer verge of a wide circle of relatives and friends.

Young as she was, she seemed to have attained the very summit of Christi[illegible], firmness and peace, and the never making any obtrusive display or demonstration of her religion, its glow illumined every phase and act of her sweet, happy life; for no stern austerity, no chill censoriousness, was mingled with her Christian graces—ever sweetly, softly, as from angel lips, her pure precepts fell. In every relation—wife, mother, sister, friend—her piety seemed to trace out every duty and elevate and beautify the performance of all her sweet offices of love.

If, when she was with us—the glow of health perfecting her rare beauty, her smile of peace and charity illuminating her pure fair brow and falling like a benison upon all who approached her—if, when she stood by us with tenderest hand to soothe our pain, with kindest heart and softest voice to give solace to our sorrow—if, then, words failed us to describe her grace and beauty, and the love we gave her, what wonder now that she is "gone to the grave," now that our aching hearts shudder at the void her absence makes, what wonder that our lips falter and close mutely when we would essay to trace an outline of her loveliness, and refuse utterance to the deep emotions of our souls?

SARAH JANE JOHNSTON was born in Haywood county, Tenn., December 4th, 1835. When about sixteen years of age she enrolled herself among the Children of God and became a member of the Presbyterian church, continuing that connection with rare consistency to the day of her death. She married Bedford M. Estes May 4th, 1854, in Madison county, and from that time resided in Memphis and vicinity. But a few weeks ago, in perfect health, she left her sweet woodland home and lovely little children, with happiest anticipations, to visit the home of her childhood on the occasion of the marriage of a loved sister, where, after an illness of only a few days, God claimed her. From the commencement of her attack she was impressed with the belief that she would die, and through all the sadness of the inevitable absence of her little darlings, through intensest physical suffering, she was divinely sustained—not once did her fortitude forsake her, but serenely submitting herself to the God she loved and trusted, she peacefully awaited the end—her last intelligible words being "Praise the Lord, O, my soul!" Thus was a beautiful life, like a tender poem set to soft and perfect melodies, ended in one grand anthem of glory.

Could the skill of science, the care of devoted relatives and friends, the agonized entreaties of a tender husband, the united prayers of a whole community, have availed, she were with us still. Death's shadow had not fallen o'er that happy home, the wail of the lone-hearted, the pitiful cry of the motherless had not there been heard, and we would not now repeat, as tear follows tear—dead, dead, dead! But God's will is immutable, and though its decree wrench our heart-strings till they almost break, 'tis not for us to question—why, oh! why?

Oh, dear friend! whose happiness it was to hold her hand in hand and heart to heart through her sweet life, will you not, even from the depths of desolation, look up and own that for her pure soul Heaven is the only fit abode? Will not your heart, although bereft and sore and agonized in every throb, thank God for all His goodness to her, in life and death, confessing He must do all things well? Let us remember the teaching of those sweet lips now cold and sti[illegible] they could speak to-day, how earnestly and [illegible]erly would they plead for submission to the [illegible] God. Oh! let us not question His mercy; [illegible] in life she did, turn to Him with lo[illegible] He will give us solace.

TABLEAUX REHEARSAL.—The ladies and gentlemen interested will please be punctual in their attendance at the theater this morning, at 10 o'clock precisely.

FIRE.—The alarm of fire last night was caused by the burning of a frame building on the Hernando road, outside the city limits. The engines repaired to the scene, but were not in time to effect any good.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Frank S. Davis, president of the first national bank, returned Wednesday evening, after a protracted absence. His friends (who are legion) will be pleased to learn that he is in excellent health.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street, have received the New York Ledger, Sunday Times, Literary Album, Chimney Corner, Boston Pilot, Phunny Phellow for August, more London Art Journals for June, Atlantic and Every Saturday for July. Call at Emmons & Son's for reading matter.

RETURNED.—We were pleased to meet yesterday our esteemed friend R. B. Miller, Esq., who has just returned from a professional visit to Mississippi. Notwithstanding his recent family afflictions, he is in good health, and will be glad to greet his friends in his office as usual.

ROOM ROBBERY.—The sleeping [illegible] of Mr. H. A. Louis, in the G[illegible] building, corner of Second a[illegible] streets, was entered at an e[illegible] terday morning, and clo[illegible] value of about three hund[illegible] dollars was stolen. The burglar [illegible]t clear. "No face."

GEN. ALCOR[illegible]Gen. J. L. Alcorn, of Mississippi, [illegible]ke his piece on reconstruction [illegible] night at the Greenlaw [illegible] to about forty people. His [illegible] is somewhat of the Brick [illegible] style, but devoid of the humor [illegible] His tirade against the demo[illegible]arty elicited no applause, and his [illegible] the political issues of the day [illegible] to be about as clear as mud.

[illegible] coroner, but a bale [illegible] missing from the ware[illegible] house [illegible] Leftwich and Cash yesterday mo[illegible] for which two men named John Stil[illegible]an and Matthew M. Glenn were arrested, [illegible] a warrant [illegible] by Justice Creighton. [illegible] to-day.

BURIED.—We learn [illegible] of the deceased negro, which had been laying for some days on the side of the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad, was buried yesterday morning by order of Mr. Coroner Cotton, that officer having been notified of the fact for the first time yesterday morning.

NO BONDS.—The ex-policeman Tim Foley, who was charged with being an accessory to the robbery committed at the house of Jno. Callaghan, (when the complainant lost $103), was up before Mr. Justice Miller yesterday, Mr. Robertson appearing for the state. Several witnesses were examined, when the accused was sent to the criminal court for trial. No bonds taken.

LOW PRICES.—This is an age of low prices, and our people should look to it that they select the best and cheapest houses to purchase from. Our friends, Messrs. Lunn & Mallon, No. 204 Main street, have reduced the price of gas fixtures alarmingly, and are prepared to attend to reparing promptly. Householders requiring anything in their line should call and examine their stock and prices.

RECREATION.—As this is the usual season for those who can afford it to visit the favorite watering places east, we deem it out of place to advise travelers going that way to purchase tickets of the reliable Capt. Larry Harmstad, corner of Main and Madison streets. He will furnish the necessary transportation to Niagara Falls, Saratoga Springs and all other favorite resorts, at the lowest rates and by the most direct lines.

VERY GREEN.—A woman of the town was arrested yesterday, charged with robbing a river man named Breston, who professed to belong to the steamer Cora, of the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars. If parties visiting large cities will place themselves in the hands of or visit the houses of such disreputable characters, we have little pity for them. "To be happy one must be virtuous."

THE FAIR.—The Asbury chapel fair at Stillman hall was very well attended last night, but not much increased interest in voting. A set of base ball clubs and ball to be given to the most popular base ball club. The valuable diamond pin in charge of Mrs. Montana, will be given to-night to the most popular gentleman in the city. The fair closes positively to-night, when we hope to see a large number of the friends of the church present "with stamps."

A BORING THIEF.—A saloon on the corner of Main and Gayoso, kept by A. Laurenzo, was robbed at an early hour yesterday morning of a hunting-cased gold watch, six boxes of cigars and a small sum of money. The thieves gained an entrance by boring holes through the door and removing the bar. So quietly was the work done that the inmates of the place were not disturbed, and of course the thief or thieves got away with their ill gotten booty.

SANITARY.—We regret to state that the sanitary committee appointed at the meeting of the board, had not done any work up to last night. Organize at once, gentlemen. You now have the power to set a sufficient number of carts and men at work to cleanse the city, and why not do it at once? Appoint your health officer, call in the sanitary force, and proceed with the work. Not an hour should be lost. The health of the citizens demand prompt and vigorous action in this matter. If [illegible] we shall

MEETING IN TIPTON COUNTY ON TUESDAY.

THE OLD WAR-HORSE IN THE FIELD.

Gen. P. B. Glenn Unanimously Nominated as Floater.

At a meeting of the citizens of Tipton county, Tenn., convened at Covington on Tuesday the 25th of June, 1867, Nat. Tipton chairman and John T. Douglas secretary, H. R. Bate, from the committee composed of H. R. Bate, Peyton Smith, G. W. Smithead, Isaac Bledsoe and Henry Maley, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The conservative convention recently held in Memphis to nominate candidates, including floater for the counties of Shelby, Fayette and Tipton, did not make a nomination for floater, [illegible]ut pledged themselves to abide the de[illegible]ion of Tipton county. It is therefore Resolved, That, in view of the crisis [illegible]r our country, we know [illegible]ore eminently qualified [illegible]B. [illegible]LEAUX AT THE NEW [illegible]EM[illegible]TER, on Wednesday even[illegible]ed a very brilliant and [illegible]audience, although the [illegible]the weather doubtless [illegible] going that [illegible] [illegible]ness the [illegible] featuresf the [illegible]ent, reflting [illegible] tact ad ex[illegible] taste of Mrs. T[illegible]son, who, on [illegible]asion as in times past, roved [illegible] unequalled in producing the most artis[illegible] effects in this species of exhibition. The number of very pretty young ladies assisting in these living pictures was also the subject of very general and flattering comment. "The Veiled Prophet," a gorgeous oriental scene, combining a great number of beautifully costumed ladies and stalwart looking impromptu Turks, picturesquely disposed on the sward; "The Gallery of Beauty," in which the fair faces of Miss Katie T—, Miss Fanie B—, Miss Katie W—, Miss Iris C—, Miss Fair H—, Miss Mary H—, Miss Lizzie C—, and several others whose names we did not learn as portraits, surpassed all art. "The Garden of Statuary" and the "Washing Scene," and subsequent dances were each and severally worthy of praise, as was also the "Angel's Whisper," in which the seraph's aria was exquisitely rendered by Miss Fanny Baker, whose sweet voice well preserved the desired illusion. The duett between the Misses Baker was very delightfully sung, and received, as it deserved, an enthusiastic encore. Mrs. Donegan's "Dixie Medley," composed by herself, was performed with excellent taste and most brilliant execution, and was without doubt the greatest treat, musically considered, of the evening. This lady, although an amateur, is already a thoroughly accomplished pianist, and, if she desires, will become a great virtuoso. The grand Knabe piano, kindly supplied by Mr. L. Goepel, is well adapted to all the requirements of the finished artiste. Prof. Sebatzky's superb baritone voice and finished vocalization was, as usual, much admired, and his reputation as a maestro is too well established in Memphis to permit comment which might seem exaggerated, were we to write exactly as we think on the subject. The "Arions" sang a quartette with their accustomed effect, in which Mr. Scranton's fine voice was very conspicuous and effective. Prof. Winkler accompanied the vocalists with his usual skill and taste, and Mr. Handwerker's hastily collected orchestra proved highly efficient. This evening this elegant exhibition will be repeated, with an entire change of programme in the musical selection, and an increase of musicians.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

With this the second acknowledgment of clothing, etc., from the Enterprise East Mississippi relief society, I would suggest to those whom I have not especially made mention of in notices heretofore, who have contributed more liberally than others, that though we seldom if ever receive the credit justly merited for acts of benevolence, our conscience should certainly be sufficient commendation for a kind remembrance of those in need. I now return thanks to some party or parties (names unknown) in Covington, Tennessee, for their very liberal donation of a large box of sundries. [illegible]ay they meet their reward." A BAD ROAD.—"We take pleasure in calling the attention of the county commissioners to the condition of the Hernando road, between Mr. Avery's residence and Cane creek. It is in a terribly wretched condition, and looks as if an overseer had not even looked at it since the war. Something should be done to improve it, for it is of vital importance that the roads leading to town should be in a good condition, so that planters can come to town whenever they feel like it. Mr. Avery, with a spirit that is commendable, has put the road between the city and his residence in a good condition. Beyond that, all who travel that way will agree with us in saying it is a mighty hard road to travel."

We clip the above from the Evening Ledger of yesterday. We are informed by reliable parties that Mr. Avery never expended a single dollar to repair the [illegible], but that what repairs [illegible] made, were made by the superintendent of the Memphis Trotting park, Capt. John S. Lail. "Honor to whom honor is due."

GEORGIA STATE LOTTERY FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE MASONIC ORPHANS' HOME.—We again call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of this great charity. The general agents for the state of Tennessee, Messrs. Fay & Chandler, No. 16 Jefferson street, are ready to receive applications for tickets in its fourth drawing, class D. This lottery is different from most other schemes of the kind in that the prizes are all cash! They are payable without discount at the office in this city. The whole profits are devoted to the charitable object for which it was instituted.

LOOK TO IT.—Now that the sickly season is coming on, careful heads of families should see to it that they have the proper remedies on hand in case of sickness. For all derangements of the digestive organs a pure and good article of brandy is an excellent remedy, and like all other good things, hard to be obtained. Those of our readers who desire to obtain the genuine, can be furnished with the same at the warehouse of Messrs. N. & J. Hoffheimer, No. 276 Front street. We have tasted the fluid and know it to be good.

BROWNSVILLE FEMALE ACADEMY. The Brownsville Female academy and Crawford institute of that place, of which our friend, Col. J. P. Wood, is secretary, have been consolidated and placed upon the footing of a first-class academy. The buildings and grounds have been thoroughly renovated, and the academy is now able to accommodate between two and three hundred pupils. The board desire to engage a competent principal, with a corps of teachers, for the literary department. Proposals will be received until August 1st., to fill these vacancies. See advertisement elsewhere.

SOUTHERN ASYLUM—SECOND DRAWING.—The list of prizes for the second drawing of the Asylum, to take place in August, offers unusual inducements to persons desirous of securing a house for a small outlay. Only $5 is asked for a chance to win a $20,000 house and lot in the very heart of the city. Now is the time to begin to make up your clubs and send your orders for tickets. Here is a positive scheme, made up of property that all can see is not only attractive but more than worth the sums to be paid for it by the asylum. Read the list of prizes and send for tickets.

THE TURF.—A preliminary meeting of the stockholders of the Memphis mechanical and agricultural association was held at the office of Marland L. Perkins, Esq., yesterday afternoon. Gen. J. H. Chalmers was called to the chair, and Capt. Sam. Shock appointed secretary. On motion the meeting adjourned to convene at the same place on Monday at 3:30 p.m., when the stockholders and friends of the association are requested to be present.

OFFICIAL ARRESTED.—One Jno. H. Craig, better known as the Infant Constable who does the heavy business at Justice Lee's office, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Justice Creighton, charged with using abusive language toward a lady on whom he was sent to serve a writ of replevin. He will come up for examination to-day, when his innocence or guilt will doubtless be proven.

THE MEMPHIS AND OHIO RAILROAD

Editors Memphis Appeal:

The management of this great avenue of travel and trade has been the subject of some comment lately, and as it is a matter of public interest, I propose to say something touching its present condition and its future prospects. When considered in all its aspects, this road is destined to become a far more important one than any other leading into Memphis, on this side of the Mississippi river. Its local advantages are unequaled; for none of the others pass through a tier of counties embracing so much population, wealth, and such a variety of productions. The counties tributary to it, had a population of more than 200,000 in 1860, and a wealth of nearly $250,000,000. They produced, in large quantities, cotton, tobacco, grain, stock and fruits; and are essentially calculated for a farming rather than a planting country; for the products furnish freights at all seasons, thus insuring a most substantial and constantly increasing local business, even if the line could not command a large through trade. On most roads, except leading connections like this, the local business is the most important, and it should always be developed and fostered as much as possible; for rival lines do not often direct to such business as they sometimes do with through trade and travel.

To give some idea of the vast increase often attending the operations of a railroad, it may be stated that the Louisville & Nashville road, 185 miles long, earned $887,000 from July 1st, 1860, to July 1st, 1861; and $2,500,000, exclusive of government business, from July 1st, 1865 to July 1st, 1866; an increase of nearly 200 per cent. in five years.

But the through business of the Memphis & Ohio road should now be an enormous one, and must greatly increase. By the shortest lines, this and the two roads north of it, connect the head of perpetual navigation on the Mississippi, at Memphis, with the heart of the populous and wealthy Ohio valley at Louisville and Cincinnati. In 1860, Memphis was the fourth cotton port in the union. All the Ohio and upper Mississippi factories buy their cotton here. Several times during the past ten years, river navigation has been suspended days at a time, from this city northward; the value of the Ohio road was thus demonstrated last winter. It connects this point—the head of the cotton region on the Mississippi—with the most populous and wealthy portions of the Ohio valley. Though it will never supersede the natural channels of commerce and travel which, year by year, have more closely allied the people of the two sections through bonds of a mutual interest, it at least adds another link in that chain. Nothing will ever supersede steamers on our great rivers; but railroads often come to their aid, when the frosts lock up the rivers. Every year this Memphis and Louisville connection acquires additional interest; and the late project—or rather, an old one revived—to connect Louisville with Cincinnati on the south side of the Ohio, gives it additional importance. Col. I. M. St. John, one of the most accomplished engineers of the west, made a survey of the route between Louisville and Cincinnati, in 1866; and there is no room to doubt the early construction of what he most appropriately terms "the most valuable unoccupied route in the United States." It would reduce the time between the two cities from ten to seven hours, and thus throw upon this road, at Louisville, all that vast volume of travel constantly on the move between the northeast and southwest. But this is not all. No road leading from Memphis toward the eastern cities has anything like the marked advantages which attend the Memphis and Ohio. It not only penetrates a rich and populous country, yielding a variety of products, but it also passes through a region having more trade with us than any other; through cities more populous and flourishing than can be found on any other of our routes; more extensively engaged in manufacturing articles which our people need. Our flour, bacon, lard, beef, (pity 'tis so) come mostly from the country to which this road leads; and almost all our household and kitchen furniture comes from the same region. So do most of our agricultural implements, and much of the machinery we use. Its connections place us in direct communication with the large cities of Louisville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Columbus, Cleveland, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Albany, Harrisburg, etc., before reaching the great Atlantic cities. At Cincinnati four or five great lines start out to the east, each filled to its utmost capacity; and these same lines bring to Cincinnati from the east an equal amount of travel and freight to be distributed south and west. These lines are all first-class roads, are ably managed, and enable the passenger from Memphis to reach New York twelve hours sooner than by any other route leading from here.

"But this is n[illegible]. A road to the Pacific is [illegible] dream. On two of the n[illegible] west of the Mississippi [illegible] laying track at the rate [illegible] a half miles per day, and ex[illegible] three miles per day during [illegible] five years they will be completed, [illegible]d New York will be connected with San Francisco via Omaha. This, however, is now known to be the snow route, upon which travel will often be interrupted during the winter season. The "progress" of the age will not tolerate this, and hence, the route from Guya[illegible] the gulf of California, must supe[illegible]ners. Independent of its bein[illegible]om snow, and several hund[illegible] shorter than the northern lines, the passenger for Canton, in China, is 1000 miles nearer his ultimate destination, when at Guyamas, than when at San Francisco. A reference to any g[illegible] map will show this. With such [illegible]tages attending the Memp[illegible] the Pacific, Cincinnati and Lo[illegible] will, from motives of interest, throw all their influence in aid of its construction. For the travel and trade of either of the Northern Pacific lines, these cities will find St. Louis, Chicago, and the lake towns important rivals. For the trade and travel over the Southern Pacific route, they would have no rivals in all the Ohio valley; for that trade and travel would strike them first, by the shortest line, after leaving Memphis; and they would thus be interested in turning them to Memphis, over our Memphis and Ohio road, as we would be in turning them to these cities over the same channel. If we had the northern and southern lines completed, from the Mississippi to the Pacific, the snowdrifts on the former and the advantage of distance attending the latter would turn three-fourths of the Pacific travel over the Memphis route.

[CONCLUDED TO-MORROW.]

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE CITY SCHOOLS.—The closing exercises of the city schools were had at the Greenlaw opera hall last night. Every seat was occupied. The exercises consisted of declamations, compositions, and vocal and instrumental music. The vocal music was especially fine, upward of one hundred boys and girls uniting in choruses, and keeping perfect time. Our limited space compels us to forego publishing the lengthy notice the exercises, which were most creditable to all concerned, merited. We subjoin the programme:

THE COURTS.

CHANCERY COURT.—The following orders and decrees were entered yesterday:

Woodrow et al. vs. Hollingshade. Final decree.
Finnie, use, etc., vs. Chase, adm'r. Final decree.
Simmons vs. Augusta Insurance and Banking company. Decree for sale.
Felts, adm'r, vs. Felts. Decree for sale renewed.
Didlake vs. Hudson. Bill dismissed, etc.
Williams vs. Wills et al. Cause dismissed.
Hamilton, use, etc., vs. Leftwich et al. Decree for sale.
Eraus vs. Richardson. Decree for sale.
Stephens, adm'r, vs. Perkins. Decree for sale.

To-day is motion day and the roll of solicitors will be called as usual commencing at letter Y.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Yesterday the case of S. B. Beaumont and A. P. Burditt, concealing stolen goods, was commenced and will be continued to-day. A severance was granted last term, S. B. Beaumont being on trial at present. It will be recollected that sometime last summer Mr. A. Marchand, of New Orleans, came to this city in search of a lot of jewelry which had been taken from his establishment by burglars. These burglars were arrested by officer Stonebraker and some of the jewelry recovered, but the burglars escaped from the officers. The jewelry went into the possession of the defendants, as commissioners of the metropolitan police. They refused to give it up to Mr. Marchand, but eventually surrendered it on writ of replevin. The grand jury found a true bill against them for concealing stolen goods, hence the criminal prosecution. The state made a motion for continuance, on affidavit, on the grounds of materiality of the evidence of absent witnesses, Stonebraker being one of them. Counsel of the defendants admitted the allegations of the affidavit, and insisted on a trial, which admission rendered a continuance as to those witnesses unnecessary. The attorney general prosecutes the pleas of the state. The defendant is represented by Judge A. Wright, Gen. Humes, Col. McRay and Col. Cameron. Ten jurors were obtained. A venire for fifty jurors was issued last evening. Should this case conclude in time, the cases set for to-day will be taken up. They are as follows:

S. A. Parish, larceny.
Geo. Carr, larceny.
D. Jamisson, malicious shooting.

MUNICIPAL COURT.—The case of Nettie White, keeping house of ill-fame, was not concluded yesterday, and will be taken up this morning. It will probably occupy the attention of the court to-day.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

To the Public.

Yesterday evening, during the sitting of the city council, one D. H. Townsend, an alderman of this city, screening himself behind his official position, used language derogatory to my private and public character. When called upon this morning for an apology, or the satisfaction due to a gentleman, he declined receiving my note. I now unhesitatingly denounce him as a willful and malicious liar, coward and poltroon.

A. J. HOPPER.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

It having been currently reported that the North American Life and Accident Insurance Company of Philadelphia has not complied with the laws of this state, least some one might credit so untrue a statement, we ask you to submit to your readers' consideration the following official letter from his honor, John Loague, county court clerk:

Messrs. Butler & Barbour, General Agents North American L. & A. Ins. Co. of Philadelphia.

Gents: At your request I take great pleasure in certifying that you have complied with all the requirements of law in relation to the payment of your state and county taxes, paying to the state $1250, and to the county $625, for the privilege of an insurance company in this state.

Respectfully, your ob't servant,
JOHN LOAGUE, Clerk.

In conclusion we would announce to the citizens of Tennessee and vicinity that we are prepared to effect Insurance upon lives at from 25 to 33⅓ per cent. less than any other company doing business in Memphis. Very truly yours,
BUTLER & BARBOUR.

The Mississippi Diarrhea Cordial.—In the summers that have passed thousands of sufferers from Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhea and Dysentery have been relieved and permanently cured by the use of the true and genuine Mississippi Diarrhea Cordial, a remedy which is forever bound to maintain a permanent place in public estimation. The proprietors take pleasure in referring to all the old citizens of Memphis and nearly all the planters of the Mississippi valley in testimony of the manifold medicinal virtues of this wonderful medical discovery; it would not be too much for them to state that this one remedy has cured more cases and relieved more suffering than all other remedies of its class combined. Are Bound to Sell Goods!—By an examination of Elson's prices the most skeptical can be convinced that Elson's mean what they say, and say what they mean.

Isn't it astonishing the way the rush still continues at Elson's great Clearing Sale? For the past two weeks their large store has been crowded with customers, anxious to secure the great bargains this popular concern offer at their great Clearing Sales, (which, by the way, have become a fixed feature in this city.) Damaged goods are extraordinary, high when compared with the prices which rule at Elson's. Parties in want of Good Goods, at Low Prices, will do well to attend to Elson's advertisement.

The Aurora Oil.—The introduction of this oil is destined to work a great revolution in the lighting world. It possesses many advantages over all other means of light, from the fact that it is much cheaper than gas or coal oil, is free from any offensive smell, and best of all, non-explosive. We have examined it thoroughly, and without hesitation pronounce it superior to anything extant for the purposes for which it is recommended. It is also superior to turpentine for paints, oils and varnishes. The proprietors, Messrs. H. C. Dewitt & Co., have an office at 24 Madison street, but they dispose of state and county rights to manufacture only. Their patent has seventeen years to run. The attention of all Sufferers is invited to the

ANTI-MALARIAL

BITTERS

—A SURE REMEDY—

IS here presented to the public for Intermittent Fever (Chills and Fever), and all diseases arising from malarial poisoning. It is now a well ascertained fact that nearly every derangement of the human system common in malarial districts, is, to a greater or less extent, dependent upon malaria poisoning, consequently, any medicinal agent that will serve as a specific against this poisoning must strike at the root of the disease which is fostered and developed through its instrumentality.

ANTI-MALARIAL BITTERS

is an entirely original compound, having superiority over other remedies from the mode of combining the medicinal agent.

This Medicine has been extensively used, and up to the present time has in no instance failed to give the most unqualified satisfaction.

If the directions are strictly followed no case of Intermittent Fever (Chills and Fever), no matter of how long standing, or of what degree of obstinacy, will fail to succumb to the use of these Bitters.

As a Tonic and Prophylactic

THE REMEDY IS WITHOUT EQUAL.

Severe cases of Indigestion, Derangements of Absorption and Assimilation, Biliousness, Un[illegible] Distension, Weight and Pain in the [illegible] Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Lassi[illegible] Muscular and General Debility, Disturbed [illegible] of Blood, Syncope, Nervous [illegible] Depression, etc., occurring [illegible] at district, or in a patient who has [illegible] time where Chills and Fever prevail, [illegible]ily yield to the use of this unequaled Medicine.

Our own confidence in the merits of these Bitters, added to a testimony universal in the case of sufferers who have used them, and accord to the Remedy their unqualified approval, has induced us, at a very large expense, to secure the SOLE RIGHT to manufacture this article from the original recipe, which recipe has been experimented upon and satisfactorily proven to be superior to any compound in the treatment of the above mentioned diseases, by one of the most learned Physicians in the United States.

D. T. EVERTS & CO.,
Sole Manufacturers & Proprietors,
PETERSBURG, VA.

Read the following from among the many Certificates received by us:

FORD'S DEPOT, VA., Nov. 29, 1866.

I hereby certify that I have been suffering for over two weeks from severe attacks of Chills and Fever, for which I had taken medicine and gained but temporary relief, the chills coming on again in a few days. The Anti-Malarial Bitters were recommended to me, and I commenced taking them at once, the use of which was marked by immediate and certain relief from chills, since which time I find my general health improved in a very satisfactory manner.

I can conscientiously recommend the use of these Bitters to all sufferers from Intermittent Fever (fever and ague), as a certain cure.

A. S. VAIDEN.

NEAR FORT CLIFTON, VA., Nov. 29, 1866.

Dear Sir:—Having a severe attack of Chills contracted on the Lower Appomattox river, I tried your Anti-Malarial Bitters, and in a week was relieved entirely from them. I cheerfully recommend it to those who are bothered with this disease. Respectfully and truly yours,
E. HUGEE.

E. T. EVERTS, Petersburg, Va.

The following certificate from S. W. Britton, Esq., speaks for itself:

PETERSBURG, VA., March 7, 1867.

D. T. EVERTS & Co.,

Gents:—It is with pleasure that I can add my testimony to that now almost universally borne as to the merits of your Anti-Malarial Bitters. I had been suffering from constantly recurring attacks of Chills and Fever for nearly twelve months, and during that time I believe that I have tried every remedy ever recommended for that disease, taking advantage, as well, of the advice of the best physicians in the country, but without any benefit. I have simply to say that I used this medicine and was entirely cured. Let no sufferer from this disease fail to try this remedy, and he will be surprised at the immediate and entire relief he will receive.

S. W. BRITTON.

D. T. EVERTS,

Sir:—Having been induced to try your valuable medicine in a severe case of Ague and Fever, contracted on the Appomattox river, it gives me great pleasure to state that it gave me entire relief almost instantaneously, after suffering some months and trying various doctors and remedies. I will here recommend all who are suffering from the above, to give it a fair trial.

Respectfully yours,
JNO. WYTHE PARKS, Norfolk, Va.

D. T. EVERTS & Co., Petersburg, Va.:

Gents:—I hereby certify to the efficacy of your Bitters in the treatment of Chills and Fever, especially with children. One of my children, three years old, had been suffering from them for several months; I used your Bitters and they had the desired effect. I cheerfully recommend them to all who are suffering from Chills and Fever.

J. D. STONE.

Ford's Depot, Va., March 25, 1867.

ANTI-MALARIAL BITTERS.—This preparation of our neighbors is making friends in every direction. Below we copy from the Richmond Examiner an article in commendation of them. Fortunately for us, our health is so good as not to require medicines, and hence we cannot speak of them from experience, but the gentlemen named below are both known to us, and we are willing to endorse them:

"Many compounds have been made by all sorts of philanthropists to give tone to the stomach, but most of them have proved failures. Not so, however, with the new discovery in the Materia Medica of D. T. Everts & Co., of Petersburg; for, if we can place confidence in the word of well known gentlemen, the Anti-Malarial Bitters, manufactured and sold by these gentlemen, approach nearer the elixir of life than any other mixture that has ever been offered to the public. It is said to be a specific for Chills and Fever, and all diseases arising from malarial poisoning. In support of the excellent curative and tonical qualities of these Bitters, we have the free testimony of Mr. S. W. Britton, of Petersburg, and Mr. John Wythe Parks, of Norfolk, gentlemen whose word cannot be questioned. We advise all who are suffering from any of the complaints to which the stomach or digestive organs is heir, to drink freely of the Anti-Malarial Bitters."

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

From "Crumbs of Consolation" in Scott's Monthly Magazine.]

"Horatio Greenough, the sculptor, and the Hon. Richard Henry Wilde, were warm friends, and when in Italy, were often together. The following spirited translations—the first by Greenough and the second by Judge Wilde, were made one evening as they were walking together in the streets of Florence. We find them in a charming work upon Greenough, from the pen of the poet Tuckerman:

THE ORIGINAL EPITAPH.

Qui giace un Cardinale,
Che fece il bene e'l male;
Il mal lo fece bene,
Ma il ben lo fece male.

TRANSLATION BY HORATIO GREENOUGH.

Here lies a cardinal who wrought
Both good and evil in his time,
The good he did was good for nought;
Not so the evil; that was prime.

TRANSLATION BY RICHARD H. WILDE.

Here lies a cardinal far famed
For doing works of good and evil;
He did his bad work very well,
But spoiled his good work like the devil."

CHRISTMAS CHEER.

On Christmas eve the bells were rung;
On Christmas eve the mass was sung;
That only night in all the year
Saw the stoled priest the chalice rear.
Then opened wide the baron's hall
To vassal, tenant, serf, and all;
Power laid his rod of rule aside,
And ceremony doff'd his pride.
The heir, with roses in his shoes,
That night might village partner choose.
And hailed with uncontroll'd delight
And general voice the happy night
That, to the cottage as the crown,
Brought tidings of salvation down.
England was merry England when
Old Christmas brought his sports again.
'Twas Christmas broach'd the mightiest ale:
'Twas Christmas told the merriest tale;
A Christmas gambol oft would cheer
A poor man's heart throughout the year.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

The children sung a song this Christmas morning,
Mellow and clear, outside my chamber door,
Waking me softly from my pleasant dreaming
Of unforgotten Christmas days of yore.

Sweetly they sung, my neighbor's happy children,
Two merry girls and one glad hearted boy,
Repeating oft their song's rejoicing burden—
"On Christmas morn the angels sing for joy!"

Sweetly they sung; but ah! their cheerful voices
Broke up my soul's deep founts of hidden woe,
And pressing down my face against the pillow,
I let the bitter torrent overflow.

Missing the little child that warbled softly
Two years ago to-day a song like this,
And when the joyful melody was ended,
Held up her sweet mouth for a Christmas kiss.

Only one Christmas eve my fair eyed darling
Lisped of dear Santa Claus her dreams among,
Only one Christmas morn, white-robed, and joyful—
Lifted her clear voice in a Christmas song.

I see her little figure standing tiptoe,
To hang her dainty stocking on the wall;
O, sinless heart! O, perfect faith of childhood,
Believing everything, and trusting all!

Peace, aching heart! O, let me trust entirely,
With faith and strength that nothing can destroy,
That my sweet baby is among the angels
Who, on this Christmas morning, sing for joy!
MRS. AKERS.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, June 27, 1867.

Gold is steady at 35c buying. The demand is entirely for shipment, there being no local demand whatever.

Silver is unchanged, with very little offered.

County warrants are not in demand. Brokers report few sales. They buy at 80 to 82c and sell at 85 to 88c.

City scrip is firm, at 70c buying; selling at 72 to 73c.

Police scrip is not active—buying at 70c; selling at 75c.

In exchange there is nothing doing of moment, and no change in rates.

Bonds, stocks and uncurrent money are nominal, at the quotations found in this column.

Mr. Lord upon whose property the famous Lord bond robbery was committed, received from an unknown source, $1,260,000 of bonds stolen from him. This leaves a deficit of $90,000 still missing.

A metropolitan board of internal revenue, of which Assistant Treasurer Van Dyke is head, has been formed in New York under orders from Washington.

A directory recently published in Richmond gives in its local history of the city the singular and significant fact that 368 houses in the city are owned by negroes, all of which were acquired while slavery existed, and no instance has occurred since the termination of the war of any negro purchasing or acquiring ownership of a house.

We question whether there is a house on Front street paying expenses to-day, and yet we are assured that rents (except in very few instances) are as high as when business was active. A walk along the street—and it is not an exception to other thoroughfares—would, particularly during an afternoon, bring to your memory the tale of "sweet Auburn" with its quiet and deserted highway. Providence will, we hope, soon make amends by a bounteous harvest for the present stagnation in the channels of commerce.

COTTON—The market to-day, like yesterday, was quiet and firm. We are satisfied that the estimate made by our chamber of commerce, regarding the stock on hand, is too great. From the best information we can gather we would place the total amount now held in this city but very little over five thousand bales. The error has occurred in the shipments, which were greater than supposed. Sales to-day were small and quotations not perceptibly changed. Receipts to-day, 19 bales. Shipments, 173 bales.

By a special dispatch it is stated that the city treasurer of New Orleans has fraudulently issued $400,000 of city notes, or scrip. It is [illegible]imed that the corporation is [illegible], and the merchants of that [illegible] refuse to receive it in trade.

The port of Savannah now holds the second rank as a cotton port. Formerly New Orleans was first as a place of export, and Mobile second, but now Savannah surpasses Mobile by an excess of 9000 bales, and is 100,000 bales ahead of Charleston.

If we are to accept the reports of eastern commercial papers, the only activity in the wool market is confined to anxious inquiries concerning the probable price of the new clip. With old stocks well sold out the dealers are said to be willing to let prices go down, so they may stock up again at low rates. This would be a good thing for them, but the farmers might not like it on account of some little interest they are supposed to have in obtaining fair prices for their wool this summer.

It is said to be an established fact in railroading that two trains cannot pass each other on a single track; it has been tried repeatedly and does not work well. So in buying and selling wool; both parties have an equal claim to the right of way, but each party must run its train on its own time, and mind its sidings. Now that eastern houses are nearly bare of wool, it would suit the dealers to purchase very low; and for the same reason it would suit the wool-growers to sell very high. But as this line of business is a single track concern, and the time tables are made to accommodate all parties, the only way to avoid collisions and explosions, is to obey the rule of the road, and conform to the rules of the time-tables. The result of this observation will doubtless be that the dealers will finally conclude to pay higher prices than they now intend to pay, and some farmers will conclude to sell at lower figures than they have got their mouths made up for. And this will not be so much of a compromise as a conformity to the inevitable laws of trade.

The Macon Telegraph says:

We observe that con[illegible]ments of southern wheat have [illegible] received in New York, [illegible] the singular spectacle that, while the southern people are actually crying for bread and receiving it by shiploads as a free donation from the north, the south is shipping wheat from her hungry people to feed the already filled stomachs of the north! After all, it may not be a bad operation in the end. If we can sell the north wheat now at a large price, and buy wheat from them after their crops come in at a much less price, money will be saved by the operation. We confess, however, that we prefer to see no wheat shipped from the south.

A New York exchange says of dry goods:

There has been a more cheerful tone in the dry goods market the past week. The commission houses are no longer forcing stock at reduced prices. Jobbers are closing out their summer fabrics on best possible terms, and preparing to take account of stock. The retail trade appears to be more active both in the city and in the interior. The present seasonable weather has been very advantageous, particularly in imparting confidence in all quarters. Manufacturers are already making preparations for the fall trade. There is yet, however, no demand for goods for the coming season, as is usual in prosperous times.

All parties interested in the dry goods trade are watching the weather, and seeking intelligence from every quarter in regard to the crops. Thus far, thanks to a good Providence, the season has been most propitious, and every one feels confident that a bountiful harvest is to be given to us. In a few weeks, now, this most important question will be settled. Brown sheetings and shirtings are in steady demand for small lots to supply retail orders from the interior. Prices are unchanged. Stock is accumulating. Prints are in better demand. Best spring styles are sold quickly on arrival, at firm prices. No stock will be carried over. Bleached goods are dull and sell only in very small lots. The stock is increasing. Prices are steady for standard makes; others are weak. Printed lawns are heavy, while the demand is quite limited; a large stock will be carried over unless forced off at public auction. Denims are dull, and perhaps a little weaker in price, except for a few standard makes. Stripes and ticks are in less demand, with no prospect of improvement for a month to come. Drills are not wanted for export, while the demand for home trade has fallen off almost entirely. Printing cloths are inactive, nothing doing in them for fall trade. Cotton bags are in steady demand, with no accumulation of stock. Prices firm. Coarse jeans are steady at unchanged quotations.

Ginghams in best spring styles sell moderately; others neglected and heavy. Muslin de laines are lower for seasonable styles, with a disposition to close off stock on best possible terms. Italian cloths are firm and more active. Cloths and cassimeres are a little more wanted, and are held quite firm. Foreign goods are not much wanted, even at reduced prices. A large stock will be carried over. Collections from the country are a little better, and very few failures or suspensions reported.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

The weather is not by any means intolerable, but business is. The quiet on the landing would try the temper of any person who had not spent twelve months on a visit to that part of Ohio yclept Camp Chase. At St. Louis the river goes up steadily. The Missouri is falling towards the mouth, but rising at headwaters. The upper Mississippi was falling at Dubuque on Wednesday. At Pittsburg the channel depth has run down to two feet, with nothing doing in consequence. At Cincinnati it fell eight inches on Wednesday, with eleven feet in the channel. At Louisville it is falling, with scant five feet in the canal and three feet down the Indian chute. Sand bars are looming up towards the mouth, and less than seven feet is reported on Portland bar. At this point a very slight decline has taken place since our last—not more than two inches.

MISCELLANEOUS.

STEAMER BURNED.—The steamer Doubloon was destroyed by fire on Sunday last at the lake end of the New Basin, New Orleans. The fire broke out in the after part of the boat, which was enveloped in smoke for some time previous to the flame breaking out. In a few moments the upper works and hull were destroyed. The Doubloon was an old boat, and before the war ran in the Red river trade. She has recently been plying in the Alabama river. She was owned by Mr. W. G. Mitchell, valued at $15,000, and was insured for $12,000. No lives were lost.

STEAMER SUNK.—The small steamer Alexandria struck a snag in Carondolet canal opposite the foot of First street in New Orleans, on Sunday, and sunk. She was insured, we believe, and was valued at about $7000. Her cargo consisted of shingles and pickets. She will be raised.

The Darling, commanded by Capt. Lew Kates, with Capt. Powers in the office, leaves for Cincinnati on Saturday at 5 p.m.

The Dan Able, Capt. Lee, with Billy Fields in the office, leaves for Vicksburg on Saturday.

The Marble City [illegible] St. Louis packet for Saturday. Capt. Tschudi commands, and Charley Parsons is clerk.

The R. E. Lee will pass up to-morrow at 10 a.m. for Cairo and Louisville.

The new Sam. Gaty will be in port to-day and leave at 5 p.m. for Vicksburg and the bends.

The Virginia No. 2, the sinking of which at Mobile, we noticed a few days ago, has been raised and taken to the dry dock to undergo repairs. The loss occasioned by this accident it is thought will amount to $2500. About 350 or 400 sacks of corn were badly damaged by the water.

A fight among the knobs came off on the levee yesterday. It was not triangular nor octagonal, but as two men and two women were mixed up in it we might call it on the square. A fancy darkey who has a right to carry a cane "bekase" he is a labor broker, got "chunked" with a piece of dirt. True to nature he dropped his cane and "frew a brick." He and an innocent old darkey not mixed up in the melee, were arrested. Then two women, friends of the belligerents, got into a fight and brought up at the stationhouse.

The Great Eastern is haunted. S[illegible] a ship with two cases, or skins, as [illegible] are called—that is, she is almost [illegible] ship fitted inside ano[illegible] inner and outer skin [illegible] for repairs. Dreadfully [illegible] dural, of course, it is in [illegible] the nature of the space, [illegible] must be co[illegible] close[illegible] the spot [illegible] smiths [illegible] were en[illegible] construction of the vessel [illegible] somewhere there in the [illegible] thik air, lie two skeleto[illegible] neer be found till the ve[illegible] up. These are the rem[illegible] an his riveter, the [illegible] On day both he [illegible] appear [illegible] by ny one [illegible] Earn. O[illegible] bee notice [illegible] the smoke [illegible] othr officia[illegible] the [illegible]ssing [illegible] ing uppo[illegible] with their [illegible] trade [illegible] then ha[illegible] been very little inq[illegible] then until it was found that t[illegible] mo[illegible] was not claimed. It was then [illegible] noted that the last time they had been seen they were at work in the "case" of the ship, and before long it became a fixed notion that by a fall, or by the effect of some vapor the two had been killed, or stunned until closed in; and all the host of men who worked at the great ship believed that somewhere in the vast hulk there lay two skeletons which, for some reason, could never be found.

A few days ago a skiff containing eleven persons was swamped by a passing steamer at New Orleans. Five of the occupants were drowned. The conduct of the smallest boy in the party, (and who was saved, too,) is spoken of as having been really heroic. When he saw the boat going down, he quickly undressed, and plunging into the water, first assisted three of his comrades to gain a hold upon the boat, and then boldly struck out for shore, where he landed in safety.

Mr. Charles Diamond, a well-known citizen of New Orleans, died a few days ago. In early life he was a mariner. Mr. Diamond always manifested a deep interest in progress of naval architecture, and was himself an inventor. Twenty-five years ago he submitted to the federal government a plan of a ram, which at the time was thought useless or impracticable, but his model was the same as that of the Manassas, the first vessel of the kind that ever sought an encounter with an enemy, and the partial success of which was the basis of all the efforts since being made by the great naval powers to provide themselves with such terribly destructive vessels. If we are not in error, he also presented to the Confederate government during the blockade of New Orleans an improvement on his original plan—an improvement which suggested, in some measure, the building of the great ram Mississippi, which was turned and sunk on the approach of the federal fleet to the city.

We observe, says the St. Louis Democrat, that the new steamer Tom Jasper has been launched. Her advent in here will be an important era, as she will be a fast and elegant steamer, specially designed to compete against the old established line for the St. Louis and Keokuk trade. It is expected to be a severe and animating contest. And we may note, too, the impression prevailing in well informed circles that other boats besides the Phil. Sheridan will soon be tilting along in animated competition with our northern line, dividing the trade to St. Paul. Even to-day two fast boats will start for a far northern goal, each earnestly hoping that the other will fall far behind.

PROCEEDINGS

Of Meeting to Remove Confederate Dead at Iuka, Miss., May 27, 1867.

AT a meeting of the citizens of Iuka, Tishomingo county, State of Mississippi, the Hon. J. D. Martin was called to the Chair and Prof. T. J. Norcom [illegible] as Secretary, who explained the object [illegible] be the adoption of suitable measures [illegible] the remains of the Confederate Dead [illegible] at various places in this town to an appropriate Cemetery.

After some very appropriate and touching remarks by D. N. Cayce upon this duty both of respect to the dead, to the feelings of their mourning friends, and to our town, Dr. J. N. Powell moved that a committee be appointed by the chairman to report suitable resolutions embodying the best plan for carrying out the object of the meeting; whereupon the following gentlemen were appointed on the committee: Messrs. D. N. Cayce, R. W. Price, J. M. Coman, Dr. J. S. Davis A. T. Mathews, Dr. J. A. Powell, J. C. Hollman, Col. J. L. Moore and A. W. Patterson.

On motion of Maj. Coman, the Chairman of the meeting was made Chairman of the committee, and Col. R. W. Price was elected Treasurer to receive and disburse all funds used for this purpose.

At an adjourned meeting at 8 o'clock p.m. the committee reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we believe it to be the duty of all good citizens to respect their Dead by giving a decent interment to their remains in suitable grounds consecrated to that purpose; and whereas, there are about two hundred Confederate Soldiers, of whom four-fifths are Missourians, buried on private property near the hotel and at various places within the corporate limits of Iuka,

Resolved, That we desire to have them removed and interred in the Shady Grove Cemetery, near the southeast corner of the town of Iuka, already consecrated as a burial ground.

Resolved, That Dr. Wm M. Willson be, and is hereby authorized, to remove and inter them in Shady Grove Cemetery as speedily as possible, according to the following specifications, viz: The remains of each one to be placed in a plain box, of suitable length, width and depth, made of new plank, and that small head and foot boards bearing such inscriptions as he may obtain to mark their final resting place.

Resolved, That the sum of one thousand dollars will be a fair and first consideration to be paid for said removal and interment, and that Dr. Wm. M. Willson be, and is hereby authorized, to collect said amount by private subscription, or by soliciting donations from the public in any manner most expeditious to the completion of the work; and that all funds must be first directed and paid to the Treasurer, Col. R. W. Price, to be, by him received and paid over to said Willson as fast as collected, until the full amount of one thousand dollars has been paid him for said work.

Resolved, That as the good citizens of Iuka have been very liberal in attending on the sick and wounded in hospital and in burying the dead, that we solicit from our friends elsewhere pecuniary aid for defraying the expenses of this work.

Resolved, That we regard Dr. Wm. M. Willson a high toned Christian gentleman, and hereby cordially recommend him to the kind attention and consideration of all whom he may visit or communicate with in his effort to raise funds for this laudable purpose.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded to the Iuka, Memphis and St. Louis papers, with the request for publication, which were unanimously adopted.
